

Tears I Shed For You

On sunny days love shines in your eyes
Like moonlight on the sea
On stormy days the glimmer's gone
Those eyes show contempt for me

I never know just who I'll find
When I walk through the door
And now you say you're leaving me
Like you've said ten times before

This time I know you won't return
Your hurricane is raging
No more will I see that sweet sweet smile
Or awake to your gentle breathing

The hardest thing I can't affect
The path that you are leaving
Your demons chased you away from me
Disaster in the making

I wish that I could sing my love
Into your precious soul my love
Winding through the darkest spaces
That keeps you so alone
I know that you will never hear
This song I write for you my dear
For that I am sad, for you I am sad
For love I am sad, too.

We all have demons that fight to survive
And try to steal what we hold dear
But knowing that we can choose
Another path that's clear

We can free ourselves to live and love
Or simply say we tried
You are walking on without me, fine
But don't give in to the lie.

CHORUS

Tonight the stars twinkled up above
Just like your brown eyes used to do
Their light becomes dimmer and fades away
Through the tears I shed for you
